As a famous wushu athlete of the China or Shaanxi (not both) provincial team, Yang Shunhong has won numerous titles at the National Games, the Asian Championships, the World Wushu Championships, the Taolu World Cup, etc.. Through perseverance and dedication, Yang, at the age of 31, won champion in Men's Taijiquan and Taijijian All-Around of the 14th National Games and in Men's Chen-style Taijiquan (56 style) of the 2021 Wushu Taolu Virtual Competition (WTVC). As a matter of fact, in 2017, he has already won the gold medal in Men's Taijiquan at the 14th World Wushu Championships (WWC), which was the 1st world champion prize of his career. Then in the 2nd Taolu World Cup held a year later in Yangon, Myanmar, he picked up the gold medal again in Men's Taijiquan.

We eagerly look forward to Yang Shunhong's continued wushu success, and to his next appearance at the 2023 Hangzhou Asian Games where he seeks to win another championship gold, and show the world the dazzling style of his taiji!

Lebanon's Shining Star

Patricia Nseir (LBN)

For over a decade, Lebanon's premier wushu star Patricia Nseir brightened wushu arenas around the world with her graceful taolu performances. An amateur athlete from a small team of a small country, she may not have won a handful of gold medals like some of her contemporaries have. However, having participated in six WWCs, she embodies all the top qualities one would expect of a champion and is part of an inextricably woven global wushu community. In Lebanon, Patricia has coached and managed the junior taolu team, organizes national championships, umpired various events, and coordinated competitions. Her first WWC brought her to Toronto, Canada in 2009, while her last WWC was the one held in Shanghai. Besides running a sports therapy clinic and coaching students, she herself still trains on a regular basis. She has also started a PhD program just before the pandemic. Her thesis, Wushu in Lebanon: the Story of an Identity Construction, sums up her years of experience and knowledge on a sociological, cultural and historical level, all of which gained through the practice of wushu.

Her work to help make wushu history in her country, spur its progression, and chronicle its history displays an extraordinarily deep commitment, focus and passion. In whatever role she decides to take on next, we look forward to Patricia Nseir's helping write yet another page of wushu history for Lebanon.

帕特丽夏帮助黎巴嫩创造武术历史，推进武术发展，梳理武术历史，表现出对武术深深的承诺、专注和热情。无论帕特丽夏接下来决定做什么，我们都期待她能够在黎巴嫩续写武术新篇章。
